

Before you begin...

- Get ready Before you start trading, read the “Before You Start Trading (Seasonal Snowfall)” FAQ.
- Open an account If you have already opened your CX Trading Account, then skip to the next section. Otherwise you’ll have to open your account at tradeweather.com/apply. Remember, Snowfall Contracts are regulated financial instruments in the United States and require the same information as opening a stock or futures trading account.
- Fund your account Snowfall Contracts need to be purchased with funds on deposit. To deposit funds, go to tradeweather.com/transfers/deposit and login. But don’t worry, we give you $10.00 immediately just for opening the account so you can make your first purchase on us.

Ok, let’s go...

- Step 1 Go to the Daily Snowfall map at tradeweather.com/snowfall and select the Full Season box at the top right of the date bar and then select city you want to purchase contracts for.
- Step 2 In the pop-up purchase window, select the strike representing the Snowfall amount that you expect. The choices are 0.0 representing no Snowfall, 0.1 representing Snowfall amounts from a Trace to 0.9”, 1.0 representing Snowfall from 1.0” to 1.9”, and so on. The purchase window shows you the distribution of existing purchases in the market across strike levels. When you select a strike level, the Estimated Potential Payout for various Snowfall amounts is shown below. Note: If the estimated payout section is colored red then the payout is expected to be less than the current purchase price.
- Step 3 Indicate the number of contracts that you wish to purchase. Note that fees are added to your total purchase price. When ready, click Review. Once you’ve reviewed your purchase, click Submit Order.

Completed Once you submit your purchase, you should see a pop-up notice confirming the details. If you missed that pop-up, you may view your purchase on the Portfolio page at tradeweather.com/portfolio.

If there’s a problem Please contact CX directly. Our contact information is shown below.

Other useful info...

- How to monitor the forecasts CX updates the Snowfall map approximately every hour with the latest forecasts. However, there are other sources of current forecasts and historical Snowfall data that you may find useful. Please go to tradeweather.com/education for useful links.
- How you get paid At 12pm (noon) ET on the Final Settlement Day – May 31st each purchaser of a contract for the season will receive a payout into their CX trading account. You may confirm your payout information in the History section of the Portfolio page at tradeweather.com/portfolio.
- You can change strike selection If you think your selected strike level is no longer appropriate, you may switch to another strike level. However, this may involve a higher purchase price.
- What if there is no Snowfall? If a given city has had no Snowfall over the season, the 0.00” strike will receive a whole share of the risk pool and all other strike levels receive 1/100th of a share.
- You may purchase contracts any time You can place multiple trades at any time 24 hours per day on any calendar day of the year for any available location.
- You cannot sell contracts Once purchased, contracts will settle at 12pm (noon) ET on the Final Settlement Day – May 31st
- What else can you buy? Snowfall often accompanies other inclement weather. CX offers a range of weather-related contracts. Go to tradeweather.com for details on purchasing these contracts.

| CX Trading and Participant Support | TradeWeather Website Assistance |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 212-829-5440 participants@cantorexchange.com | customer.service@tradewx.com 814-235-5410 |
| tradeweather.com/education | |